

Shakespeare Pathfinder

Tools and tips to help you find all things Shakespeare

Source: Knox, Jed. William Shakespeare. Deviant Art. 16 Jan 2006.

Print material: On the cart in the library we have assembled a collection of the finest Shakespeare material for your use...if you need help, ask a librarian!

Websites: Got a topic? We've got a website:

ANYTHING Shakespeare

If you only visit one website from this document make it the Shakespeare Resource Center:

<http://www.bardweb.net/index.html>

Shakespeare's Life:

Absolute Shakespeare

<http://www.absoluteshakespeare.com/>

This one's got a great timeline in the bottom right corner.

The Seven Ages of Shakespeare's Life

<http://internetshakespeare.uvic.ca/Library/SLT/life/index.html>

This one has all the details.

Elizabethan England:

Life in Elizabethan England

<http://elizabethan.org/compendium/index.html>

Everything you want to know about life in Will's time. Great London link at the bottom of the page.

Elizabethan Clothing Laws for Women:

<http://www.elizabethan-era.org.uk/elizabethan-clothing-laws-women.htm>

An early version of "What Not to Wear"...for what to wear, see the links at the bottom of the page

BBC's Elizabeth I: An Overview

http://www.bbc.co.uk/history/british/tudors/elizabeth_i_01.shtml

Who was this Queen Elizabeth chick?

Daily Life in the Elizabethan Era:

<http://ic.galegroup.com/ic/whic/?userGroupName=moreladue3>

This is from Gale. If you want to access it at home you need the super-secret password "rams." To find it, type the words "daily life in the Elizabethan era" in the search box.

The Globe and Elizabethan Theatre:

The Shakespeare Globe Centre Research Archive

<http://www.sgc.umd.edu/>

The lowdown on the Globe from the USA

Theatre

<http://shakespeare.palomar.edu/theatre.htm>

There are more links from this site than there are Shakespeare plays

Who really wrote Shakespeare's plays?

The Shakespeare Authorship Roundtable

<http://www.shakespeareauthorship.org/index.htm>

Use the arrows at the bottom of each page to move through the incredible amount of information in this site.

The Shakespeare Mystery

<http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shakespeare/index.html>

There are especially good sources if you click on the "Readings" tab.